

Vitae resources to support the Vitae Researcher Development Framework

The Vitae Researcher Development Framework (RDF) is a professional development framework for researchers. The RDF describes the knowledge, behaviours and attributes of successful researchers. It can be used by individual researchers at all stages of their career, as a resource for training sessions and by institutions to audit or organise their provision for supporting researchers' professional development.

We offer a range of resources to help bring the RDF alive for researchers.

About the RDF

Information to link from web pages or presentations:

- Information about the RDF aimed at different audiences www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFabout
- Briefings on using the RDF for a range of audiences (PDF) www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFresources
- Many of our resources refer to or are mapped to the RDF. For example you can search by 'subdomain' using an advanced search and we have a set of advice sheets covering each of the 63 'descriptors'. Find out more at www.vitae.ac.uk/RDmembers

Benefits of using the RDF

See the benefits to:

- Institutions www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFbenefits

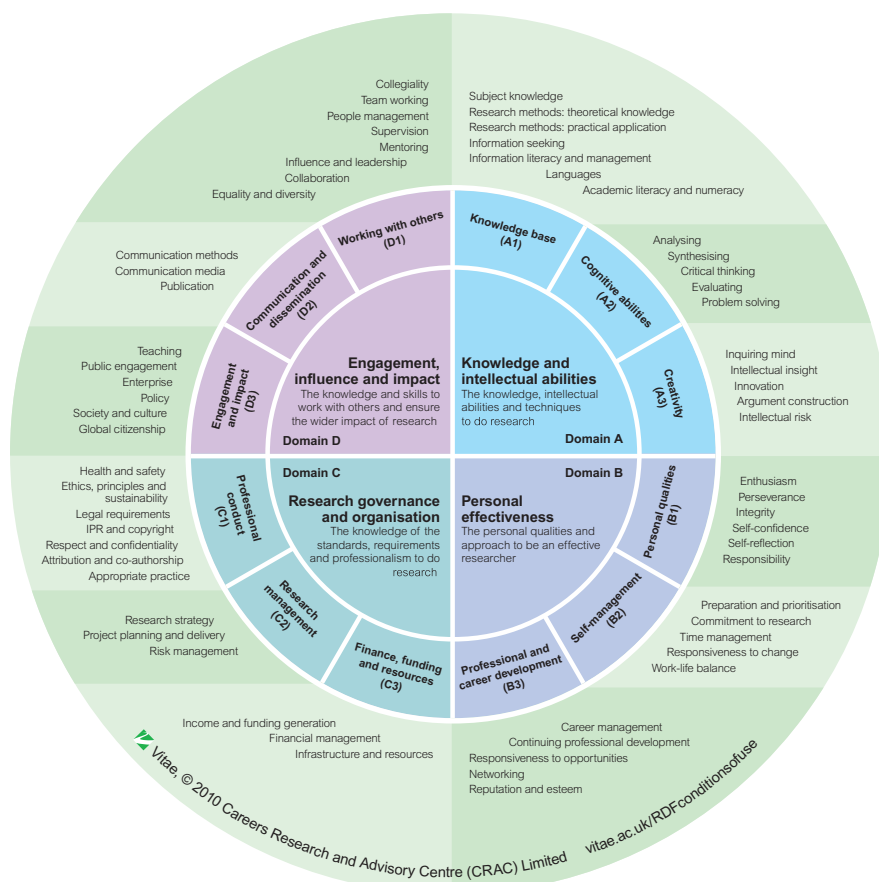

How the RDF is used

A majority of research-intensive institutions in the UK reference the Vitae RDF on their websites. Many have mapped their training and development provision for researchers to the RDF.

- RDF lenses focus on attributes needed in a specific context such as teaching or enterprise www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFlenses
- A set of RDF cards to use as a training resource is available to buy www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFcards
- Our online app the RDF Planner can be used to identify strengths, action plan, review achievements and create a portfolio of evidence. Available through organisational or individual subscription www.vitae.ac.uk/RDFplanner
